MATCH DAY PREVIEW

Joondalup Giants vs South Perth Lion - Its an easy equation for the Giants now. Season is on the line. They win and they give themselves a chance with a monster road game down south next week. Lose and they miss the finals. They get a tonne of troops back this week, including the reliable Searle and damaging Sparrow. But they must be rueing the timing of Payden Porter rosters. Has been devastating in games, but has landed on the Ellenbrook games twice now. For South Perth. Injuries are hurting them, and it's the forwards who are picking up the slack. Wells-Talamaivao, Wright and Smith all noted backrowers playing wider this week. But Green has been great for them in the 6, and with captain and halfback Proudler in good form and fit, they will fancy themselves a big chance of ending the Giants season and booking their ticket to the finals. A lot to play for here, and I'd like to see Thomas at the back really stamp himself in this game, as his opposite Haney has been a handful of late.

North Beach Sea Eagles vs Rockingham Sharks - Its 100 games for a couple of Sea Eagle servants in Kani Solomon and Cairo Takarangi, and their team mates will be looking for a big performance today to give them a win in their milestone game. The trusty Godecke goes to the halfback spot and will relish the extra game time, while backrower Donkin has impressed people since moving up. For Rockingham, they have their hands on the minor premiership and two wins will see them snatch it and a home semi final. Hunt is at fullback, and can be said loves it back there, but the introduction of Murphy and Barclay in the backrow to go with Tuuta makes the sharks extremely dangerous everywhere on the field. Watch the battle between Matanakilagi and Woolley. One is a big raw talent and the other probably one of the best young outside backs in the competition.

Joondalup Giants vs South Perth Lions

Similar to the other games at Admiral Park today, this game is a bit of a crunch game for one of the teams. South Perth really need to make a statement game here if they are going to feature in 2022, but the Giants are absolutely flying and will be incredibly hard to beat.

The Giants are on fire and rightly will go into the finals as odds on favs with the Roosters to meet in the grand final. Everyone is fit, and with Utia recapturing the form of her youth they are always a chance. They have welcome Warren back, who while not as lightning as she was, is still a handful and an incredibly smart footballer. The inclusions of Smiler and Browne seemed to have settled this young team along the season as well.

For South Perth, the players not there from 2021 has shown why they are a bit clunky. But they still have some players who can hurt you. Do not give Howes any space as she can go the length at will, and with Smith and Suamili, they are a very capable tag side. It remains to be seen if they can go with the other sides, and with the Tigers looming in Tag its becoming desperate for the Lions.

North Beach Sea Eagles White vs Alkimos Tigers

It's a tricky game for the Tigers here as they look to stamp their ticket to the finals in the Val Murphy Trophy. The North Beach White side got dusted badly by Fremantle a couple of weeks back, but were incredible against a super strong Joondalup side last week and will look to bring that form into todays clash.

For the Sea Eagles, Caleb Cudby looks a likely type and can beat you with speed and strength, and the positional move from fullback to five-eight looks a good one. But they aren't the biggest side in the forwards and will need huge games from their boys in the middle. Losing one of the Toka brothers doesn't look great, but brother Paul can really go as well, so they will have a crack.

The Tigers have gotten better as the year goes on, and teams won't like seeing them in the finals. Kahupukoro at the back is playing better every week, and Moala on the wing is one of the best working wingers in the competition. But they will go through their forward pack this week with Kihi brothers along with Pomare all available and will be tough to deny.
