MATCH PREVIEW

Well its a fitting way to finish the year, with the Northern Rivals going after each other one more time. For the Giants, club stalwart Gus Marshall will bow out after a long career and they will be desperate to send him out a winner, while North Beach need a big scalp to host the Major Semi in two weeks. It has been a tough year for the Giants with alot of FIFO and injury factors, but they will be heartened by the form of some of their youngsters and will be looking forward to a big future. For the Sea Eagles, they will be fine tuning things, with alot of players returning this week just in time for a hit out before the finals in two weeks.

MATCH PREVIEW

Well this is a preview of what we will see in 2 weeks, but its the location that matters. Will it be the Bears that host the elimination final? Or will we be heading to Treeby for the do or die fixture. But its a wierd week. Willagee look strong, although will still be missing Maliko and Kelly again. But Kamso is back, and Bannister is an able deputy anywhere on the field. For the Roosters though, they have alot of players missing, as the boys head back to work for one more swing before the finals. With as many as 4 TBC's. Edwards is back in the halves with Goodsell, who has been good for the Roosters, while the reliable Paki goes to centres with Antonio returning.

MATCH PREVIEW

And in our final game of the weekend we have what should be a great day. South Perth will be bumping as they celebrate a host of their premiership winning teams over the years in a massive reunion and celebration. They are playing for the right to 1st place and hosting next week, while the Sharks are playing for pride and warned not to be counted out. The Lions have alot of troops back on deck and will want to flex their muscles leading into the finals. For the Sharks one more chance for their kids to cause a boilover and hurt another of their high flying rivals. Whatever the case, it should be a great game to go and watch on a big day.
